Tutoring Experience

Over the past 9 years, I have guided students from diverse educational systems, including IB, A-Level, and IGCSE, helping them excel in computer science. My sessions include programming fundamentals, advanced software development, and hardware systems. I take pride in assisting students with IB Internal Assessments and preparing them for coding competitions and Olympiads.

My teaching experience spans working with high school students and coaching them for university-level programming challenges. I also maintain a comprehensive collection of study notes and handouts tailored to different curriculums, ensuring each student has the resources they need to succeed. My students consistently achieve top results, a testament to their hard work and our collaborative efforts.
